

“...He came in and apologised and I asked my questions. He offered to pay back the cost of the things he took. I wanted to know if he would still be around my area. It was a useful experience...”

“...He apologised sincerely several times and said that he would never carry out a burglary again. He aimed to improve his life for himself and for his three year old daughter...”

“...I realised just how many had been affected by my actions; the victims and their family and myself and my family. I thought the householder would feel violated, scared and assume that I might go back.”

“...I had always thought of myself as a loveable rogue but I realised I was not – I was a bad man!”

Restorative Gloucestershire

Restorative Gloucestershire bring those harmed by crime or conflict, and those responsible for the harm, into communication, enabling everyone affected by a particular incident to play a part in repairing the harm and finding a positive way forward.
